Uchi Chef and Owner Tyson Cole plans to open up a fourth location of his popular sushi concept in Uptown Dallas, following his original Austin restaurant and newest Houston location.

This week, Cole signed the lease for a restaurant property at the ArtsCenter at the corner of Maple Avenue and Randall Street. He plans to open the sushi eatery by late 2014 or early 2015.

Details on the construction, design and local hiring were not immediately available Friday afternoon.

Cole says he plans to bring his signature menu, including makimono, yakimono, tempura and sushi and sashimi to the Dallas restaurant. Cole owns Uchi Austin, Uchiko in Austin and Uchi Houston.
